This information guide provides the necessary information required to participate in MAQC, as well as supplementary information regarding mechanics relevant to one's experience in the Quarterly Clash. For additional information not covered by this document, please contact a staff member in the appropriate channels for clarification.

Mech Arena Quarterly Clash (MAQC)

MAQC is an officially sanctioned multi-weeklong event that tests the skills of players while rewarding strong performances. At its core, MAQC is meant to promote healthy competition between members of the server while giving back to the community. It boasts a massive prize pool and a large population of participants eager for glory and rewards. As its name suggests, it is loosely hosted once every quarter of the year.

MAQC is an ever-evolving event that aims to improve upon its foundation to provide a smooth and enjoyable experience for all its participants and supporters. Feedback from members will continue to help shape the future of MAQC. As the event changes, so too will the information guide. Please refer to the latest issue of the information guide for the most up-to-date information.

Structure

This section outlines the overall structure and flow of MAQC, including what the average participant can expect in their experience.

Registration

MAQC will begin with a 2-week registration period. Members who are interested are advised to seek out reliable teammates and choose a representative for the team. This representative shall be the team leader and will be responsible for registration, communication, and disputes. The requirements of a valid team are as follows:

- One chosen leader (who will make the registration and MUST be in the MAO Discord)
- At least 3 members (including team leader)
- Registered at the max SP possible for any member in the team (not the 'ideal SP range')

For any drastic changes, the team leader can safely edit the team's information before the initial deadline. Any changes made after the initial deadline or outside the update period will result in the forfeiting of Week 1.

Note that Moderators may make changes to your registration during the verification process. These adjustments are made solely to align and correct your team's information. For example, a 10k SP player registers at 5k SP, but a Moderator may correct their registered SP to 10k to align with MAQC expectations. Kindly consider this before attempting to re-edit your information.

Extended Registration

After the deadline of the initial registration, a second registration (referred to as the Extended Registration) will open for 1 week. This registration will run alongside the first week of MAQC and serves as a 'final call' to participate. Note that any teams registered during the extended registration will forfeit the Week 1 rewards. However, they will be able to participate in subsequent weeks.

Runtime

MAQC Season 7 will run for 6 weeks. In each week, every team will be assigned an opponent with a matchmaking algorithm. The list of matches will be sent out every Monday of the match week. All players are advised to seek out their opponents and schedule matches. Match results must be posted in the appropriate channel by Sunday of the match week.

Communication & Scheduling

Team leaders are strongly encouraged to communicate with their opponents in their assigned Forum post. They are required to:

- Locate their assigned forum post based on their match number and the week
- Ping their opponents in the match post
- Schedule battle times
- Bring up any issues in the same post

Using a monitored channel will allow moderators to stay informed regarding ongoing discussions or disputes. It will also readily provide them the context needed to enable a quicker response and make appropriate judgements. Any kind of agreement between both teams should be confirmed in this forum post.

Matches

Every week, all teams are expected to complete 1 match. The details of the match are as follows:

- Best of 3 - First team to achieve 2 victories in battle shall be the winner of the match
- Control Point Clash – All battles must be done in the Control Point Clash gamemode
- Designated Maps - All battles must be done in the designated maps of the week
- No Rematches - Rematches are not obligatory but are allowed if both teams agree
- Bots - Missing teammates may be supplemented with the “Fill with bots” or “Equalize with bots” match options if both sides agree
- Teammates - No unregistered IDs are allowed to participate in the battles

Members are highly recommended to record the battles in case of unforeseen issues. These recordings can be potentially reviewed by the moderation team for disputes.

Submissions

After the conclusion of the match, team leaders are to post screenshots of the battle results in the forums. Make sure to submit these screenshots in the post with your match number and in the correct week. Screenshots should be clear and unedited, and any attempts to modify or misrepresent match results will result in severe penalties. Failure to post the match results will lead to an auto-lose for both teams. Moreover, any match results posted after the weekly deadline will be disregarded.

Information Updates

After the deadline of the match week, team leaders will be allowed one opportunity to update their registered SP to better align with their current status (which will be announced every Sunday of the match weeks). This allows members to participate in MAQC without inhibiting their in-game progression. Note that team leaders may only increase their SP, but not reduce it, so ensure that no errors are made during the updates. Any changes made to the registered SP may or may not affect the matchmaking system.

Summary Guide

Included in this sub-section is a basic summary guide to help any Team Leader navigate through their experience of MAQC:

1. Join the Mech Arena Official Discord
2. Turn on server notifications and occasionally check for MAQC related updates in #maqc-announcements
3. At the start of every match week, find your opponents in the list provided in #MM-LIST
4. Navigate to your assigned Forum post (based on your match number) in #MAQC-BATTLE-POSTS and ping your opponents
 - a. If they do not respond in 72-hours, contact a Moderator to file a dispute
5. Conduct all MAQC related scheduling and agreements in your Forum post. Only the agreements made in the post will be officially recognized by Moderators.
6. Identify a suitable match time before Friday 6 am UTC. If unable to do so, contact Moderators to file a dispute.
7. All leaders are advised to clear their schedule and remain reasonably available throughout MAQC.

Read the steps above for a smooth experience in MAQC. More details can be found in the dedicated rules section. For any doubts, do not hesitate to reach out to Moderators in #MAQC-Q&A.

Support & Assistance

This section outlines the support and assistance provided by the MAQC Moderators, as well as how one can seek out help during their experience. Decisions made by Moderators and Administrators are final and non-negotiable. Please only ping one Moderator at a time to request for assistance.

Disputes

In a situation where moderator intervention is required, team leaders are to ping an active Moderator in their assigned Forum post. To help speed up the investigation and resolution of issues, team leaders should provide the following information in this order and format:

- Issue Topic
- Summary of the Issue
- Evidence
 - Screenshots, video timestamps, etc

To help streamline the ticketing process, players may also select a general topic to describe the issue. These topics and their descriptions are provided below:

- SP Violation- The opponent has exceeded the SP bracket
- AFK Opponents- The opponent is not communicating
- Misconduct- The opponent exhibited disrespectful and abusive behaviour during communication
- Scheduling Conflict- Unable to schedule a time for the match

If required, a Moderator may launch an investigation regarding the issue. Kindly cooperate with the investigation by providing answers or additional evidence. Moderator intervention for scheduling conflicts or inactive opponents will only be considered before Friday 6 am UTC of the match week.

Inquiries

As mentioned above, the document contains general information that may answer most inquiries. For information not covered by this document, you may reach out to any active Moderator in #MAQC-Q&A. They may provide you with an appropriate answer or redirect you to a valid source. However, they also reserve the right to withhold answers to certain questions of a confidential nature. When interacting with an MAQC Moderator, be respectful, clear, and cooperative, which will allow them to better assist you.

Self-Conduct

Participants of MAQC are expected to conduct themselves properly throughout the event. This is necessary to showcase good sportsmanship and promote a healthy yet competitive environment. This rule extends to any platform where participants can communicate regarding MAQC. Misbehaviour outside of MAO Discord and in-game chat may be reviewed if it impacts other participants. The entire team is also liable for the actions of any of its member. MAQC has a zero-tolerance policy for poor behaviour, regardless of the circumstances.

Examples of poor conduct include but are not limited to:

- Harassment
- Excessive Toxicity
- Disrespectful Behaviour
- Unnecessary Instigation
- Abuse of Loopholes
- Refusal to Cooperate
- Deliberate Disruption

Kindly refer to the complete server rules provided in the Mech Arena Official Discord for an extensive overview of appropriate self-conduct.

Those who are affected by any misconducts are strongly encouraged to not engage with the offending party but instead report them to a Moderator. This can be done by making a dispute and providing sufficient evidence in the communication channels.

Commitment

Participants are also expected to remain responsive and cooperative when scheduling. Inactivity and failure to communicate will also damage the experience of MAQC for other teams. Team leaders are required to:

- Remain reasonably available throughout MAQC
- Respond to opponents and Moderators in a timely manner
- Cooperate with Moderators during investigations

Teams that are inactive for extended periods will be removed from MAQC to avoid diluting the roster and prize pool. This is done to ensure that the event can maintain an active and competitive player base. Thus, before registering for MAQC, please confirm that you and your team can reasonably commit to the event.

Inactive Team Members

All players in a team are also expected to remain reasonably available throughout MAQC. Players who are inactive for an extended period may be removed from the team at the request of the team leader.

MAQC Website

Registration processing and participant record management are done online on the MAQC dedicated website. This section aims to be a guide to help participants navigate through the features of the website.

Team Registration Guide

Before you start, here is everything you need:

- An email address you can access – To bind your account
- Your Mech Arena Player ID - This will be your Password
- The highest Max SP in the team - A single number
- The Player IDs of every team member - 3 to 5 players, no substitutes

Only the team captain registers the team. Team members do not create accounts.

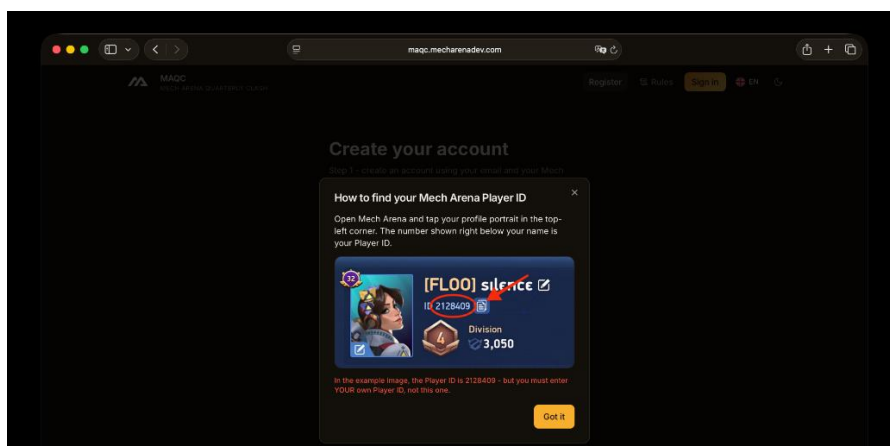

Step 1 - Create Your Account

1. Access the registration page (<https://maqc.mecharenadev.com/register>)
2. Email - Enter your email address, it will be bound to your account and will be needed to access your account.
3. Mech Arena Player ID - Type your Mech Arena ID (digits only). It will be used as your password as well as becoming the captain ID (this cannot be changed later)
4. Click Create account.

If you see "that email is already registered", click on Sign in at the bottom.

How to Find Your Player ID

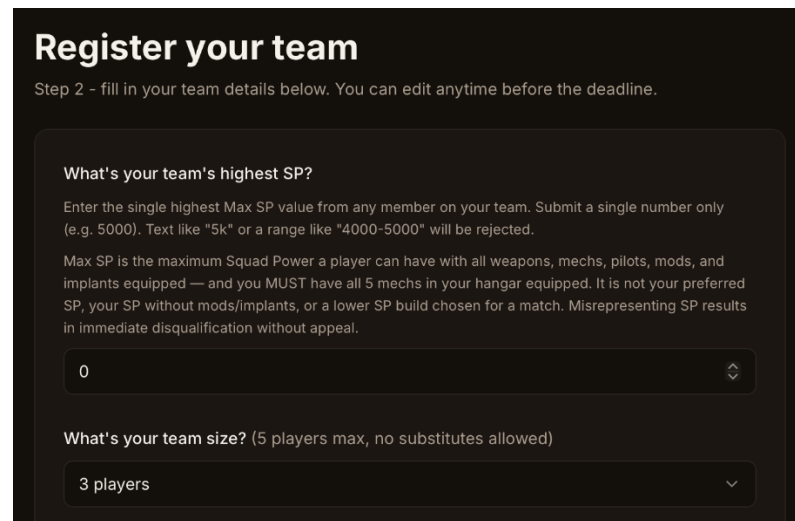

1. Open Mech Arena
2. Tap your profile portrait in the top-left corner
3. The number below your name is your Player ID (You may click the icon to copy your ID directly)

Remember to enter YOUR ID and not the one provided in the example!

Step 2 - The Team Registration Form

Once signed in, you will be allowed to register your team. Please fill in every field from top to bottom.

Register your team

Step 2 - fill in your team details below. You can edit anytime before the deadline.

What's your team's highest SP?

Enter the single highest Max SP value from any member on your team. Submit a single number only (e.g. 5000). Text like "5k" or a range like "4000-5000" will be rejected.

Max SP is the maximum Squad Power a player can have with all weapons, mechs, pilots, mods, and implants equipped — and you MUST have all 5 mechs in your hangar equipped. It is not your preferred SP, your SP without mods/implants, or a lower SP build chosen for a match. Misrepresenting SP results in immediate disqualification without appeal.

What's your team size? (5 players max, no substitutes allowed)

1. What's Your Team's Highest SP?

- One string of numbers (e.g. 5000)
 - Text like "5k" or ranges like "4000-5000" will be rejected
- Max SP is the maximum Squad Power a player can reach with all weapons, mechs, pilots, mods and implants, with all 5 mechs equipped in the hangar.

2. What's your team size?

- Choose 3, 4 or 5 players. Maximum 5. No substitutes allowed.

3. Captain Discord Username

Please provide the team captain's Discord username

The picture below is only for reference — you must put YOUR Discord username in the field below, and NOT the one highlighted in the example.

A screenshot of a Discord profile. The display name is 'silence' and the lowercase username is 'silence'. The profile picture is a red and white image. The status is 'HELL'.

Open Discord, click your profile, and copy the lowercase username shown under your display name.

In the example image the username is `silence` - that's the field you need to copy, but enter YOUR own username, not the one shown in the example.

- Open Discord > click your profile > copy the lowercase username shown under your display name (e.g. `silence`), not the display name.
- The sample shown above is only a reference. Type YOUR username and never the one in the example.
- After the Discord verification in Step 6, this field is locked to the verified account. To change the team leader afterwards, contact a moderator.

4. Player IDs in the Roster

Mech Arena player ID for each team member

The first field is the team captain's Player ID. The others are your team members. Player IDs must contain digits only.

Captain

Player 2

Player 3

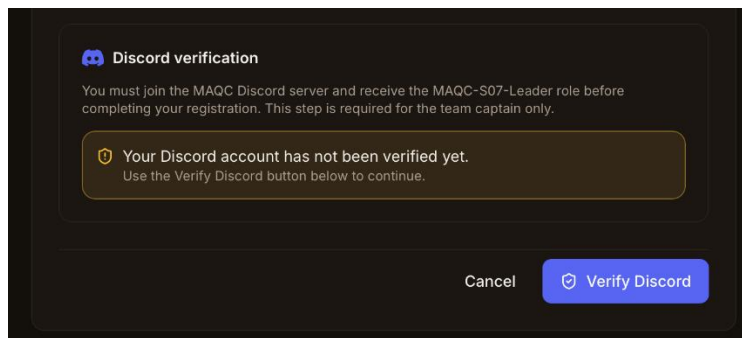

ⓘ The Captain Player ID is prefilled from the ID you entered when creating your account and cannot be edited here. If there is any issue with it, please contact a moderator and provide the email address used on your account (teste100000@gmail.com).

+ Add player

The first field (Captain) is filled in automatically with the Player ID used to create your account and cannot be edited. For any errors, contact a moderator and provide them with the email of your account.

- Fill one Player ID (digits only) per team member.
- + Add player will add a player slot (up to 5).
- Note that the system will enforce the following:
 - No repeated Player IDs inside your own roster.
 - No Player ID already registered on another Season 07 team.

Step 3 - Discord Verification (Mandatory)

1. At the bottom of the form, click the blue Verify Discord button.
 - Fix any errors in the form (outlined in red) first; the button will not proceed otherwise.
2. Discord opens and asks you to authorize Stefania (Authorize). It will request: identify, join servers, email.
3. You will be sent back to the site. The system automatically:
 - Adds you to the Mech Arena Official server (if not already present),
 - Grants you the MAQC-S07-Leader role,
 - Locks your captain username to the verified Discord account.
4. The green box Verified as @yourusername - Server joined and MAQC-S07-Leader role assigned confirms it.

Only the captain verifies. If the entered Discord username differs from the verified one, the system corrects it automatically.

Step 4 - Read the Rules and Submit

1. With Discord verified, you will be prompted to Read the rules. Click it.
2. The full tournament rules will be shown. Scroll to the very bottom - the agreement checkbox stays disabled until you do.
3. Tick the agreement box, then click Register team.

Step 5 - Confirmation: My Profile

After submitting you are redirected to My profile, which shows:

- Captain username, status (Active), bracket, starting week and team size.
- Max SP, Wins and Losses.
- The full roster of Player IDs.
- Match history - empty until the week's matchups are released every week.
- Edit your registration - change roster, team size or SP before the deadline.

Once each match week has concluded, you will have a one-time opportunity to update your team's SP. Any changes must be made during the edit window, which will be announced in the MAQC S07 Announcements channel on the Mech Arena Official server.

Additional Information

The content in this section pertains to supplementary information relevant to MAQC. This includes additional details related to the tournament system and other related mechanics.

Brackets

SP brackets are dynamically generated after the registration process to equally distribute the population of registered teams. As team information updates, so would the SP bracket placements. At the start of every week, the new bracket, as well as the match list, will be generated.

Matchmaking

Matchmaking is done by pairing a team against opponents with similar SP in their respective brackets. This ensures that matchups are fair and balanced at its core. However, as teams achieve more wins, they may find themselves matched against increasingly stronger opponents. This is done to promote equal prize distribution while rewarding exceptional teams.

Tolerance

A tolerance will be applied to the SP brackets to avoid being too restrictive, thus allowing for more flexibility when creating matchups. There are two Tolerances that one should be aware of:

1. 10% SP Tolerance - Current SP must not exceed 10% above the registered SP
2. 5% SP Bracket Tolerance - Current SP must not exceed 5% above the Bracket SP

Teams are required to satisfy both tolerances, and failure to do so will result in penalties.

Honour System, Penalties & Compensation

MAQC Season 7 introduces the Honour System to encourage fair play amongst participants. It is designed to punish rule-breaking, compensate victims, and not disrupt the flow of the event.

For any serious infraction of the rules, a Moderator may apply a demerit to the offending party. The effects of a demerit are as follows:

- Reduces the final reward of the offending team by 25%
- Increases the final reward of the affected team by 10%
- Penalties can be stacked

The Table below provides the summary of the effects of demerits on an offending team.

Demerit Counts & Penalties

Demerit Count	Penalties
1	Final Reward -25%
2	Final Reward -25%
3	Final Reward -25%
4	Disqualification from MAQC Season

Note that particularly severe cases may result in an immediate disqualification instead of demerits.

Reward System

The reward system splits and distributes the prize pool amongst the teams based off their performance during MAQC. The rewards of a given team are calculated based off the registered SP, number of wins, and any penalties/compensation (if applicable). This means that a team with zero wins may receive no rewards.

SP Brackets Scaling

In an SP bracket, the ‘weight’ of a single win is the same across all teams in said SP bracket. The relationship of the SP brackets and the ‘weight’ of a single win is linear to maintain a consistent and equally impactful reward system.

Wins & Rewards

Every single win increases the ‘weight’ of a team’s prize. The higher the ‘weight’, the larger the portion of the prize pool. It is essentially the major deciding factor of a team’s reward in MAQC. Note that a team with zero wins may receive no rewards.

Compensation & Penalties

Compensation and penalties are percentage modifiers added to a team's final 'weight'. A penalty will reduce a team's 'weight' while compensation will increase a team's 'weight'. These are applied after the calculation of the base weightage and before the final prize distribution.
